Navigating the World of Autism- Part 1 Autism Through the Lens of Trauma - Part 2

Michele DeBerry MS CCS-SLP, Ed.D Candidate
Presenter

Part 1: Learn to navigate the world of autism and understand the spectrum of abilities. This session will identify the impact autism has on children and their families; and we'll also explore ways families can partner with schools to build a team to help navigate the world of autism, while developing academic, social, and lifelong skills.

Part 2: This session will discuss the effects of trauma on children with autism, identify protective factors that can be focused on at home and in the community. Participants will also learn to use a trauma-informed approach to shine a light on the way forward for children and families.

From Awareness to Action: Trauma-Informed Care for Children and Adolescents with Sensory Disorders

Amber Davis, DSc, MSOT, OTR/L- College of Allied Health
Presenter

Part 1: This session will concentrate on grasping the sensory system, assisting children and adolescents with sensory processing challenges, and adjusting activities and encounters for those struggling with sensory issues.

Part 2: Attendees will also delve into the sensory obstacles faced by children and adolescents with autism and trauma, and explore effective ways to aid children in various settings like home, school, and the community.
